

Fupper yelled She's on fire! How?
When she let the ox out of the box, she was afraid he would accidentally fall.
Now after a few moments she was becoming increasingly concerned about how will it end. With the concern she grew warmer and the rest is history. Now the best thing to do is wait... you see when an ox goes to sleep, it can be difficult to tell when he is in full slumber, when he mutters something like finsing, then you know he is asleep. When an ox is asleep, his body will finally cool down. If she gets close enough it will cool the fire, if this doesn't work, whisper in his ear Metalate I will implode, but goes the fire all is well, so put that damn ox back in his box.
